British Plan Arms Made To U.S. Sizes

This Standardization Would Serve U. S. by Providing Advanced Bases, Is View Would Save Time Plan Would Make U. S. Anglo Arsenal, Give Less Trouble

London, Oct. 31 (P)—Well-qualified British military sources, say the British Empire has agreed in principle to the standardization of all its armaments on U. S. sizes and patterns.

In practice, these informants said, standardization would serve the United States by making such countries as Australia and New Zealand, in effect, "advance bases" for U. S. forces in the event of future conflict.

Britain would gain the advantage of being able to order most of her land, air and naval weapons and munitions from America with considerable less trouble, and in far less time, than in the past.

Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada was said to have been the first to broach armaments standardization, making his suggestion at the April conference of empire premiers in London.

Prime Minister Clement Attlee was reported to have taken the proposition up with his military chiefs and later with America's top military men through the joint chiefs of staff.

Conversion to take 10 years British conversion, military informants said, would take at least 10 years, and they said they expected A. V. Alexander would give the decision a practical effect as minister of defense.

Debate was opened in the House of Commons yesterday on the government's proposal to link the air, land and sea forces under one ministry, with Alexander at its head.

Board of Education President Declares He Is 'Confused' by 'Contradictions', Says Board Asks Only Beneficial Plan

A state of confusion which has existed since the introduction of the "readiness reading grouping" plan in the Kingston schools this fall, appeared to have been intensified last evening after a parent group appeared before the Board of Education and with the board and principals of the schools, discussed the matter.

The parent group, headed by the Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger as chairman, maintained that the system was "archaic" and had been abandoned in progressive schools 25 years ago. This group

Cooler Weather Is Forecast in State To End Heat Wave

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 31 (P)—Cooler weather was in prospect for New Yorkers today, ending a record-breaking heat wave.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Albany said it would be considerably cooler across the state today than yesterday and that a cold front moving in from the northwest would drop temperatures into the 30s tomorrow.

"It will mark a return to normal autumn weather," the weather bureau said.

Albany recorded 80 degrees yesterday, breaking the temperature mark for the date, set in 1903, by nine degrees.

Syracuse, Rochester, Buffalo, Schenectady and New York city also experienced record breaking marks for the date.

The hot weather at the month's end was in contrast to the October 1 weather when the season's first snowstorm hit the state, blanketing northern New York with more than a foot of snow.

Yesterday's record highs included: New York, 78.8 degrees; breaking the 1918 mark for the date of 73; at Schenectady, 73 degrees, exceeding the 1918 mark by six degrees; and Rochester, 77 degrees, breaking a 50-year-old record of 74 degrees. Buffalo, with 74, topped its 1896 record by one degree.

Other readings included: Bear Mountain, 80; Dunkirk, 78; Elmira, 77; Binghamton, Rome and Utica, 76; and Glens Falls, 72.

List Status To Be Given Decision

Roedell Passed His Examination With Rating of 86.86 Per Cent Preference Given

Roedell Heads List Under Veteran Status, Kaman Says

A notification was mailed Sergeant William T. Roedell yesterday in which he is given his rating which he attained at the examination held last July 10 for police lieutenant.

The notification, signed by Secretary Paul J. Kaman, Jr., as Secretary of the Municipal Civil Service Commission, states that Sergeant Roedell attained a rating of 86.86 on the examination and further stated that the "eligible list standing No. 1, (veteran preference)" goes to "Sergeant Roedell."

Whether this notification is an official promulgation of an eligible list by the Municipal Civil Service Commission will be determined perhaps on Friday when an order to show cause why an eligible list should not be sent the Police Commissioners for the purpose of their making an appointment, will be argued before Justice Bergan at special term.

An order to show cause was obtained several days ago and on its return before Justice Bergan he dismissed the complaint as against the Police Commissioners on the grounds no list had been certified to the commissioners and therefore they would not act. He also held that there was no evidence that the Civil Service Commission had been given sufficient time to take action for the promulgation of a list and he dismissed the complaint against the commission without prejudice to renew it.

Second Order Obtained A second order to show cause was immediately obtained from Judge Bergan, returnable Friday at special term, in accordance with his suggestion in the first proceeding. Within 24 hours of that order being granted to the Municipal Civil Service Commission, Mr. Roedell's written notification of his standing and with his percentage, his position on the eligible list.

Charles Gaffney, counsel for Mr. Roedell, said he would appear Friday in court under the show cause order which had been obtained by him earlier this week. Corporation Counsel Arthur B. Ewig appears for the city officials.

Fire in Citrus Plant

Winter Haven, Fla., Oct. 31 (P)—Fire of unknown origin was sweeping through the half-million dollar citrus canning plant of the Bordo Products Company early this afternoon with indications that it would be a total loss. Fire companies from Winter Haven and several neighboring towns were fighting the blaze while railroad crews were moving gasoline and oil tank cars from nearby railroad tracks. The plant is located near the Seaboard Railway station just outside the city limits.

Hotel Strike Settled

Washington, Oct. 31 (P)—Settlement of the Washington hotel strike was announced by the White House today. Reconversion Director John R. Steelman brought the hotel operators and representatives of the union to a final agreement this morning. Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross told a special news conference.

Frankfort, Germany, Oct. 31 (P)—Maj. David F. Watson was sentenced to three years imprisonment and dismissal from the U. S. Army today upon his conviction on charges of conspiracy and receiving stolen property in connection with the $1,500,000 Kronberg Castle jewel theft.

Sparkman Predicts U.S. to Try Quickly To End Cotton Fall

Expects Steelman to Wipe Out 120-Day Limit on Advance Pricing by Mills.

Washington, Oct. 31 (P)—Rep. Sparkman (D., Ala.) predicted today that the government will try quickly—possibly by nightfall—to jam the brakes on tumbling cotton prices.

A major cotton exchange made ready to resume trading after an emergency shutdown yesterday. Sparkman told a reporter he expects Stabilization Director John R. Steelman to wipe out a 120-day limitation on advance pricing by mills of finished cotton goods.

The cotton state lawmaker also said, after conferring with Steelman, that price controls on cotton textiles may be abolished. But he added:

"I don't consider decontrol as important as removal of the 120-day limitation."

Sparkman said Steelman plans to confer with President Truman today on the cotton situation.

"I feel certain there will be quick action," the Alabama asserted. "It's likely to come today."

Cotton exchanges in New York, New Orleans and Chicago announced last night that they would reopen for business today. They halted trading suddenly and unexpectedly yesterday—for the first time in two weeks—in an effort to check the price slide that has sent the staple down as much as $5 a bale.

Conference Is Arranged

Sparkman quickly arranged a conference with Mr. Truman and later quoted the Chief Executive as saying it is "the purpose of the government to do everything possible to stabilize the cotton market."

He added that the President was mapping "plans for action."

Cotton fell to two cents a pound above parity, despite a decline of nearly 19 cents since it hit a 26-year peak of 38.95 cents on October 2.

Thomas also called on the President to bolster the sagging market by having the Commodity Credit Corporation purchase at 100¢ a pound of cotton at 75¢ of the parity price. This would be a pound for the price of 75¢ on the market quotations.

In government circles there was considerable doubt that price control on cotton textiles will be repealed at this time, although an O.P.A. official said he "would not be surprised" if it "would not be repealed."

This official said removal of cotton price controls would force removal of rayon and wool as well, and that this "inevitably" would result in the fall clothing and other textile products.

Disarmament Is To Be Discussed

Full Airing Will Be Given to Proposals by Russia

New York, Oct. 31 (P)—Soviet Russia's proposal for world arms reduction were assured a full airing in the United Nations Assembly when the 14-Nation General Committee decided today to include the disarmament question in the assembly's agenda.

The committee agreed unanimously to send the armaments issue to the 51-Nation Assembly and to have it referred immediately to the Assembly's Political Committee.

The proposal to put the question on the agenda was offered by British Delegate Philip J. Noel-Baker as soon as the General (steering) Committee met at 10 a. m. E.S.T.

"I accept the proposal of the United Kingdom," said Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky.

No other delegates spoke on the question.

Committee action on the arms issue was confined to the Soviet proposals, but it was taken for granted that once they came up the debate would embrace all arms proposals including demands of the United States that adequate inspection and enforcement measures be adopted along with any limitation action.

These safeguards were expected to provide the issue over which the major powers would clash when the debate finally started.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov seeks to reduce arms and outlaw atomic weapons by agreement, but Warren R. Austin, chief

Freeman Story Source Was Private Citizen, Editor's Note Says Not Official

District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn, Republican candidate for re-election, last night in a Second Ward speech gave full and dignified rebuttal to Democratic charges that he supplied information to The Freeman regarding the lack of police protection in Kingston.

The office of the district attorney, Bruhn said, is one solely for the prosecution of crime and its duties in no way can be defined as having supervisory functions over the Kingston Police Department or any other protective agency.

(Editor's note: In saying this Mr. Bruhn is fully within his rights. In addition, the information which The Freeman published came directly from the chief of police. Source of the condition within the police department was a private citizen with no connection with protective or supervisory agencies.

Mr. Bruhn had nothing to do with the story, which is not a political issue in any sense, but has been used to do with a condition of public safety. The Freeman felt within its rights in bringing what it considers inadequate police protection to public attention.)

Mr. Bruhn's speech follows: On April 1st of this year, our great governor, Thomas E. Dewey, saw fit to appoint me as District Attorney of Ulster County. I was naturally very grateful for such appointment particularly since it came from a man who had himself established a universal reputation as a great prosecutor. He

Bomb Explosion Wrecks Wing of British Embassy

Rome, Oct. 31 (P)—A thundering bomb explosion which shook the city wrecked an entire wing of the British Embassy early today and wounded an Italian passerby, perhaps mortally. Police and embassy officials confessed themselves without a clue to the identity of the perpetrators.

A gaping hole reaching back for a depth of two rooms was torn into the building by the blast, resulting from two suitcases full of explosives detonated by clockwork. The heavy masonry of the block-long, three-story structure was cracked so deeply that police said part of it might have to be pulled down.

Embassy personnel escaped injury, but two Italian passersby

Ceilings Removed

Washington, Oct. 31 (P)—O.P.A. today removed price ceilings from pulpwood imported from the three Canadian provinces of Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

The price agency said it had decided that ceiling prices established in Canada by the Canadian government were "sufficient to insure satisfactory price controls, and no purpose will be served in having parallel O.P.A. ceilings."

The new Canadian ceilings were raised last July 8 ranged from $9.50 to $18.25 a cord on board cars at Canadian shipping points.

May Be Reconsidered For Army Commissions

Fort Dix, N. J., Oct. 30—Any of the 5,312 applicants for Regular Army commissions who were rejected at Fort Dix, and who have failed to receive notification from the Adjutant General as to their status, today were urged to inform the Adjutant General of their present addresses. It was explained that letters of notification have been sent to the applicants at the time they appeared before examining boards at Fort Dix early this year, but many such applicants have had changes of address or have left the service since that time. Such applicants will have an opportunity to be reconsidered for appointment under the new integration program by writing the Adjutant General, Attention, AGS-D-R, Washington 25, D. C., requesting supplemental information applications which must be filled out and returned to the Adjutant General, postmarked prior to November 30.

Bruhn Drops Police Lack Back to City

It certainly was fitted by virtue of his experience as a district attorney to determine the qualifications necessary for such an office. Upon assuming the office of district attorney, I would carry it on in a manner comparable to that of my predecessors. In the six months and more that I have served in such capacity, I have attempted to do just that. The various police agencies in the county, the state police, the police and the Kingston City police, will bear witness to the fact that I have cooperated with them fully at all times. They will further bear witness to the fact that I have made myself available to them at all hours of the day or night. I have heard and still feel that such cooperation must exist in the interest of efficient prosecution of crime in this county. I believe further that such cooperation is best accomplished by keeping within the confines of the duties of a district attorney and not by dictating policy to any of the police enforcement agencies.

Prosecution His Job

It has always been my understanding that prosecution of crime is the primary duty of any District Attorney. As a matter of fact, Section 200 of the County Law subdivision 4 states: "It shall be the duty of every District Attorney to conduct all prosecutions for crime and offenses cognizable by the courts of the county for which he shall have been elected or appointed."

I have attempted to conduct the office with that in mind and whether I have succeeded, I think will be amply borne out by the record.

As you may or may not know, we have five Grand Juries during the year in Ulster county. In January, May, October and December we have Supreme Court Grand Juries and in September we have a County Court Grand Jury. The May Grand Jury this year, the first one during my term, considered 28 cases; the September County Court Grand Jury considered 37 cases and the present October Grand Jury considered 15 cases. When you compare those cases with the 14 handled by the Grand Jury of May, 1945 and the 18 handled by the September, 1945 Grand Jury, I believe you will have a better idea of the increased amount of work which has been accomplished during my term.

Of course, if you bear in mind that the District Attorney is chargeable with the responsibility of preparing and presenting these cases to the Grand Jury, you will more fully appreciate the amount of work which actually has been accomplished.

Grand Jury System

While on the subject of Grand Juries, I should like to point out that the constitution of the United States and the Constitution of all of the states, have adopted the Grand Jury system as a means of protection to the citizens as well as a necessary aid to public justice. Since its adoption, it has served as the cornerstone of our criminal system of justice.

The law imposes upon the Grand Jury duties which are of great character.

To society—to see that persons justly suspected of crime are held to answer and

To the citizen—to see that he is not subjected to prosecution upon accusation based on envy, hatred or malice.

Because of the important part which the Grand Jury plays in our system of justice, I urge all qualified citizens to regard serving on such a jury as a civic responsibility not to be shirked by anyone except for good reason.

Prior to 1938, Section 223 of the Code of Criminal Procedure read as follows: "A grand jury is a body of MEN returned at stated periods from the citizens of the county, before a Court of competent jurisdiction, and chosen by lot, and sworn to inquire of crimes committed or triable in the county." However, in 1938 the legislature substituted the word

PERSONS for MEN and the way was then opened for women to serve on Grand Juries. It is interesting to point out that the September Grand Jury this year had nine women, the largest number of women ever to serve on any Grand Jury in this county. They as well as all women who have ever served on a Grand Jury are to be complimented. They recognize their civic duty and as good citizens performed it in a highly commendable manner. I urge other qualified women to do the same.

Has Had Wide Experience

Since my admission to the bar in 1934, I have had experience both in prosecuting and defending criminals. I felt that in view of such experience, I was familiar with the duties of the office of district attorney. However, I was surprised to learn that my young opponent seeks to add a further duty to the office. He would now have the district attorney regulate the Kingston Police Department. To verify my previous understanding of whose responsibility that is, I again referred to the City Charter of the City of Kingston. Section 82 of such Charter states in part as follows: "The police commissioners in office, and their successors, shall constitute the board of police commissioners."

"The mayor shall be a member and president of said board" and Section 83 reads:

"The said board may: Prescribe rules and regulations for the department, appoint a chief of police and such policemen or patrolmen as may be authorized by this act" and under subdivision.

"Defining the duties of the members of the force and retire them from office on account of age or other disqualifications which renders them unfit for duty."

Nowhere do I find any reference to any authority which the District Attorney of the County of Ulster may have over the Kingston Police Department and for that reason, I do not seek to exercise any such authority.

I say again that I have and shall continue to cooperate with all police agencies to the fullest in the interest of the prosecution of crime.

It has been my experience that I must confine my attention to the prosecution of crimes and to attending to the various matters which normally occupy a district attorney's attention in order to accomplish the work that is brought to my attention.

It is of interest, I think, to point out that a grand jury can indict only on proper legal evidence and not on hearsay or supposition, and so it should be under our American way of life. However, when one seeks to indict on supposition without a single piece of legal evidence to bear out the accusation, then I say that is not the American way.

For my young opponent to say that because a certain article appeared in the Kingston Daily Freeman, I, as District Attorney, was responsible for it, at a time when he had no evidence whatever against me, is certainly not the American way or democratic way, if you will, of presenting charges, and I want to say here and now, that I unequivocally deny that I had any part in such publication. It seems very strange to me that since my young opponent and the police protection to the city is adequate, that he should attempt to identify the District Attorney with the Freeman publication, and if the police protection is adequate, why is he so exercised about the publication? Can it be only for political purposes to create a false issue for his own political ends?

I feel sure that my young opponent is in accord with the editorial policy of the Ulster County News. That paper in its issue last week concerning my connection with the Freeman publication stated: "Everything about the man, his character, his ability, his honesty, militates against entertaining the idea." The idea, of course, being that I engineered the publication. I'm willing to rest my case so far as any accusations against me are concerned on that statement.

And so I say to you that when it is said that I forsook the safety of the citizens of this city for my own personal ends, it is not a fair statement of the truth. I was born and raised in this city and received my early education at Public School No. 3 and the Kingston High School. I have always deep and shall continue to have, a deep and abiding interest in its welfare, which interest has been manifested in my effort to cooperate in civic, fraternal, athletic and charitable work in this city.

I feel certain that the citizens of this county and city who know my character and reputation will not be misled by these groundless accusations and for that reason, I have hesitated to dignify them with a reply. I have only spoken of them so that no one would deem my silence an admission of their truth.

In conclusion, I want to say to the veterans of this county that I too take great pride in being a veteran of this latest war. I'm fully mindful too of what a sacrifice it meant for all of us. We all joined hands in a common cause with a sincere hope and desire that everlasting peace would be our reward. I still entertain such hope and desire and feel we can achieve it at home only through cooperation. While the heat of battle of a political campaign may give the impression of ill-feeling, I still look for peace. As a veteran, I solicit your support and shall be most grateful for it.

To all the voters I say: To be sure on Election Day Vote Row A—All the way!

Editor, The Freeman

The two letters appearing in your paper on October 30 signed by officers of two labor unions disavowing their connections with a Republican Labor Committee are apparently intended to convey the suggestion that all of the members of those two respective unions are opposed to the purposes of the Republican Labor Committee. I am sure that both of the unions involved desire that the membership of all unions is entitled to hear all sides of political controversies.

For too long a period the high priced publicity experts of the Democratic party have tried to convey the impression that they and they alone are responsible for progressive labor legislation. It is surprising that one of the unions involved is apparently opposed to the dissemination of anything to the contrary. The officials signing the letters are fully aware of the fact that the action taken in forming the Republican Labor Committee was purely the result of voluntary action on the part of members connected with the 11 unions mentioned in the news release of October 26. The members participating in the committee are fully within their rights and these union officials know it.

The action of these same officials in participating in a so-called labor rally where Democratic personages were introduced to the people of Kingston was fully within their rights. The same thing is true of the action taken by members of their respective unions. I wonder where they draw the line.

Sincerely yours,
GEORGE E. YERRY, JR.

Discussion Held

On Grouping Plan

ranging from fifth to thirteenth year level.

A survey is of no use unless action is taken on it," Mr. Laidlaw said and so it was decided to put a system in effect to correct the difficulty.

There had been differences of opinion as to what system to try and a meeting was called, three recognized systems were discussed and the present system was finally approved. Following this a meeting of all principals was held and the plan outlined and arrangements made to put it into effect this fall. That session of principals was last May or June and the minutes of the meeting were presented and the action taken by the principals then was one of the topics discussed last night. Mr. Laidlaw said the three systems which had been discussed before adopting the present plan were: grouping within the grade as has been done here for years and the third plan was where two or more divisions exist in a building of dividing the groups up on readiness reading. It was thought this plan best to correct the local condition and it was adopted. Mr. Laidlaw said the purpose of the meeting, Wednesday evening was to ascertain how the plan was working out in the schools and to ascertain whether it was basically sound, and whether improvements could be made to the system or whether to eliminate it.

Before Mrs. Dingee spoke to outline the method, Trustee Katz asked whether it was true that Mrs. Dingee had much to do with installation of the system. He was told she had.

Tells of Observations

Mrs. Dingee said she had watched methods in the state and had studied methods had visited places where the system was in use and finally the local system was set up. She told of how the plan worked in detail with the original division of pupils again being divided by the teacher and said it was contemplated to shift the teachers each year from one group to the other so that all teachers would get the experience. Because of lack of room in some schools, a hard and fast rule, Mrs. Dingee said it was impossible and it had been left to the individual principals to carry on as was best for each school, each school following as nearly as possible a guide which she presented. She referred to the system in Newburgh, a three grouping plan; Poughkeepsie a two, three and four grouping in a room but where the entrance age is higher than in Kingston; and also she referred to Arlington, Hudson, Catskill, Saugerties, Middletown, Yonkers and Amsterdam where she said grouping was used with variations. Mrs. Dingee said she had also been informed that Port Chester and White Plains also had grouping.

Various questions were asked Mrs. Dingee, among them was the question whether children could be interchanged among the groups at any time.

Mrs. Dingee stated that a child who changed in ability during a term could be changed within the room but changes to another room would be made at the end of the year.

Asked as to the basis for grouping of students, Mrs. Dingee said the New York state school test had been given last fall, an achievement test at the end of the year, work tests and the teacher judgment all figured in the grouping. All of the teachers seemed interested in the system, Mrs. Dingee said.

First to speak for the principals was Raymond H. Rignall of Nos. 8 and 8. He said he was opposed to the plan used here. Two distinct groups were had because the stigma. He also said the particular physical condition of a student on the day of a test might make a difference in the group to which he was later assigned. He also objected to the plan because it developed disciplinary problems through the throwing together of the so-called "slow" students in one group. Classes he said were too large for good results, something he said the mental attitude of the pupil was bad, the slow ones were classified by their fellow students as dumb and the fast ones were developed into "snobs." Most of his teachers he said were opposed to the plan and would like to return to the heterogeneous grouping. He said he suggested going back immediately.

Asked if he had any opinion in opposition to the plan before it went into effect for a trial, Mr. Rignall said he had been opposed to the plan before it went into effect.

Principal A. J. Boyd of No. 5 spoke in favor. He said there had been too much talk among parents at the dinner table over the plan and he felt the difficulty seemed to stem from the parents' objection. He referred to a meeting of some 30 or 35 mothers at No. 5 school where they expressed a liking to the plan after it had been explained to them. One parent had stated that her boy who had always been at the "foot of the class" in the old system when thrown in with one group, was now "finding himself" since he was placed in the "slow" group where he now led that group. This leading of the group in which he had made his development, Mr. Boyd said he did not believe the students in his school knew whether they were in a "slow" or "fast" group and he had tried to plan the groups so this would not be brought to the attention of the students. "In heterogeneous grouping they know who is slow in classes," he said and teachers are required to spend most of their time with the slow ones.

Hyatt Says System Good

Stephen G. Hyatt of No. 7 said the system was good but if parents do not co-operate he wondered how good any plan was. He said he had begun to wonder if the present grouping system will work because of the "parent attitude." If a parent loses confidence in a school system little benefit comes, Mr. Hyatt suggested "a slip back" to last year's plan and grouping a more thorough study, see how it works in other places and then set up a good progressive system when a proper study and plan has been devised. He said the present system was good but agitation had continued and opposition to the plan had developed to such an extent that confidence was being lost.

Mr. Hyatt suggested that parents be taken into the confidence of the school officials and told how any system was to work before it was placed into effect. Parents should be educated to know the "objectives and benefits" of any plan. The present plan never started out to be a "fast" and "slow" group plan but it had developed in that way, he said.

John J. Finnerty of No. 1 said the system did not apply to his school but he was familiar with it. It is not a new plan, it is a good plan but the people "have the wrong slant on it," he said. He favored the system. "No. 7 is a unique school," he said. "When parents there want something and they will keep on until they get it," he said. He was formerly principal at No. 7.

Frank E. Ratcliff of No. 3 said he thought the plan was a "fine idea and I don't think it should be stopped just because a few parents object to it."

Mr. Hyatt said he believed 99 per cent of the objections were sincere but he felt the system was not understood. "It is a good system, but we go off on the wrong foot," he concluded.

Committee Evenly Divided

At this point the committee of parents came into the meeting.

Rev. Shellenberger spoke explaining that the committee was made up of parents and was about evenly divided between parents of "fast" and "slow" grouped students.

On the committee is: Rev. Shellenberger, chairman, Francis Martucci, Rev. F. L. Gollnick, Mrs. Herbert I. Bloom, Mrs. Ed Lacey, Fred Stang, Henry Millonig, Jr., Mrs. Benjamin Scholten, Mrs. Lewis Keator, Mr. and Mrs. George Yerry, Mrs. Joanna Feuerstein, Mrs. John Kelly. Absent from the committee was Rev. Gollnick, Mrs. Bloom, Fred Stang, Mrs. Yerry and Mrs. Johanna Feuerstein. Attending but not on the committee was Mrs. Martucci.

Rev. Shellenberger said an investigation had been made, visits and talks had been held by committee members with educators. He said the plan now in Kingston was "modern education twenty-five years ago." He attacked the plan as having been instituted without proper planning and he said he did not believe the plan was fully understood. The philosophy behind the plan was not understood and he said the basis for division should not have been made on one factor alone.

A test to determine the division should not be made the prior spring but in the fall of the term. He also said certain data on the pupil must come from contacting the parent. He also said material for the system had not been prepared before the system was placed into effect and he referred to Mrs. Dingee stating that they would "try" and get material. This material should have been secured before the system was started. He said the "stigma" attached to the system was one reason why it had been discarded and he said it was bad psychologically on both student and parent.

Cites Opinions

Mr. Shellenberger cited differences of opinion among educators for the plan and he said classes at No. 6 were too large for proper instruction. One class he said has 46 pupils. The so-called "slow in reading" group he said was now slowing up in other studies too.

Referring to the statement that Arlington, Poughkeepsie, Saugerties and other places have the same system as now in use in Kingston, Mr. Shellenberger said they were "nothing at all like it."

In closing he recommended it be put aside immediately, saying it could be abandoned simply by a change in registers.

A committee should be appointed to make a study and plan a thoroughly modern, progressive system for the children, and then, only then should the grouping system be used. He said some grouping system was necessary "but the particular one used here has been archaic for 20 years."

Martucci Also Speaks

Francis Martucci also spoke in opposition. He said he was "shocked" at the statements made at No. 6 and 7 schools and the brief preparation made before the system was put into effect. He charged that statements made at No. 7 were inconsistent with those made at No. 6 and that at the second meeting certain things which had been suggested at the No. 7 meeting had been incorporated in the explanation of the system made at No. 6. He attacked the short study made and the lack of preparation for adoption of the system.

Mr. Martucci suggested that the plan be abandoned immediately and that the Superintendent of Schools, principal Mrs. Dingee and the teachers with two or three of the parent committee be formed into a committee to make a study of some plan to replace the existing one.

At the conclusion of the session Mr. Feeney said the matter would be studied and the Board would act at a special meeting to be held as soon as possible, probably next week.

Several members of the committee spoke, questions were asked and answered by the principals and members of the committee and the Board members interjected several present as to methods now in use and suggested methods.

Shoe Industry

Decontrol Begins

Shoe Price Ceilings Are Discarded

Washington, Oct. 31 (AP)—Decontrol of the nation's $2,000,000,000-a-year shoe industry began effective today after the White House publicly directed O.P.A. Chief Paul Porter to throw shoe price ceilings into the discard.

Decontrol of the shoe industry was refused to take any action until ordered to do so. Also in compliance with White House wishes, they said, he removed ceilings on all leather and hides.

These sources told a reporter the price administrator resisted the White House request because he was opposed to piecemeal removal of controls before O.P.A. is ready to publish its major decontrol list.

Steelmen issued the order late yesterday and O.P.A. followed through within a few minutes with its brief decontrol announcement.

O.P.A. officials said retail shoe prices might soar 20 to 30 per cent above present levels before they begin to turn downward.

Hogan.

Edson Gives Final

Word on Program

For City's Children

Parade, Costume Judging, Movies Are Scheduled for Tonight at Auditorium

Expressing hope that this year's Halloween party tonight in the municipal auditorium would be one of the most enjoyable and successful on record, Harry L. Edson, acting director of recreation for the city of Kingston, told a reporter:

In the event of heavy rain to interfere with the parades, remember that the doors of the auditorium open at 6:30 p. m. and the Grand March will start at 8 o'clock. Mayor Edmuth will lead the legion color with the American Legion Color Guard, the Doodle Duffers will furnish the music.

During the march, judges consisting of the Misses Marie Ambrose, Rosemary Netter and Joseph Gilday will pick out the children having costumes who will be eligible for the prizes. These prizes for years have been given by the 40 and 8 organization of the local American Legion.

After the judging and awarding of prizes, interesting and amusing movies will be shown, continuing until every one is tired enough to go home.

Rain or shine, we hope all of the children will participate in the program.

Disarmament Is

To Be Discussed

of the U. S. delegation, declared last night that the United Nations must go beyond that to guard against secret armament.

Russia to date has persistently rejected inspection proposals. The argument thus boils down to the basic issue involved in the proposed Russian-American disagreement over atomic energy control.

Delegates looked to an impending session of the Assembly, steering committee for a preview of the chances for Russia and the western powers to bridge the split between them sufficiently to make a real start on the arms problem.

It was generally expected that Molotov would urge the committee to put his arms proposal on the formal Assembly program, while Austin would have the opportunity to press his inspection proposition.

A clash also was expected to develop possibly in Assembly debate tomorrow, over reports on the number of troops the great powers have in foreign countries—despite the fact that Molotov and Austin both said such reports ought to be made.

Another clash, reflecting the split between the two powers, appeared to be in the making over complaints filed against Britain and Greece last night by President Ewer Hoxha of Albania. He accused four British warships, one of which was alleged to be violating "the integrity of our country." October 22, said British planes violated the Albanian borders October 23, and accused the Greeks of creating border incidents.

Hoxha addressed his entreaty to U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie and asked that the assembly intervene to protect Albania and put down "such provocations against our country."

Some delegates privately considered it significant of the state of United Nations affairs that one of the most heavily applauded speeches in Austin's American policy speech to the assembly last night was: "After the last war he (the United States) made the mistake of disarming unilaterally. We shall not repeat that mistake."

Austin told Molotov and other assembly delegates that while he accepted Russia's four-point program designed to speed world arms compacts "we cannot reduce arms merely by talking about it."

In a similarly challenging manner, Austin called on Molotov to get behind the work of the U. N. Military Staff Committee, which is charged with the practical task of working out disarmament agreements. The Russians, Austin said, had blocked all progress of the committee for six months (April to September) by failing to submit their proposals on creation of United Nations Security Forces through their own member nation had done so.

Meanwhile the assembly was running several days behind schedule. General debate, which was supposed to end Tuesday, actually will not wind up until tonight, authorities said.

The British position on armaments was reported by delegation leaders to be approximately the same as that of the United States. The British, too, it was said, favor a system of inspection to protect peaceful states against those which might arm secretly.

On the question of making reports on troops, however, there was still considerable uncertainty among British delegates here because they are looking to Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin on route here by trans-Atlantic liner, to determine policy.

Churchill Hopes U.N. Will Dispel War Talk

London, Oct. 31 (AP)—Winston Churchill declared today he hoped the United Nations would "sweep away" war talk by providing for an interchange of "actual military facts, supported by adequate reciprocal inspection."

Britain's war-time prime minister—called by Prime Minister Stalin an "instigator of a new war"—said in a speech accepting the freedom of the city of Birmingham. The honor was presented at his London home.

"We are told that one of the great evils from which we suffer is international suspicion," Churchill said. "There is a very good remedy for suspicion. It is the full disclosure of the facts, and that simple sovereign remedy, I hope, will be applied to the world situation by the United Nations Organization now meeting in the United States, and what is called war talk swept away by an interchange of actual military facts supported by adequate reciprocal inspection on terms of honorable equality between all the powers, great and small, which are involved."

An action has been commenced by Chester E. Buely and Florence M. Dewey Will Go to Brooklyn; Gets Great Ovation in Bronx

New York, Oct. 31 (AP)—Striving to be "old-line" Democrats into the Republican fold with a sustained attack upon "leftist" groups, Governor Dewey carries his reelection campaign into over-whelmingly Democratic Brooklyn tonight.

At a Kings county G.O.P. rally at the Academy of Music, the governor will discuss what his secretary, Paul F. Lockwood, termed "some of the reckless charges" made during this campaign by the splinter party's advocates.

Dewey has failed completely to discuss the issues, Lockwood said, and instead, in desperation, has resorted to a deliberate campaign of misrepresentation.

The speech will be broadcast over a statewide radio network. Dewey began his four-day New York city campaign last night in the Democratic-controlled Bronx with a fresh blast against the Democratic alliance with the American Labor and Liberal parties.

The two minor parties, which are backing the Democratic slate headed by U. S. Senator James M. Mead, have most of their strength in this city.

Has Made No Compromise

The Republican party is "the only party in this state which has not compromised with totalitarianism," Dewey told 2,000 persons at a rally sponsored by the Bronx County Republican Committee in Roosevelt High School.

"We have accepted the support of no party or element of the community of which we are ashamed," the governor declared. "We are the only party of which that can be said."

Dewey received his greatest ovation of the campaign at the Bronx rally. When he ascended the stage the crowd cheered, whistled, jangled cow bells and applauded for nearly five minutes. He also received a sustained ovation upon leaving the auditorium.

The governor devoted the principal part of his address to an exposition of the Ives-Quinn law barring racial and religious discrimination in employment.

First Goal Achieved

He said the first goal of his administration had been "the achievement in reality of the American dream of equal opportunity." The Ives-Quinn Law, enacted in 1945, gave life and meaning to this ideal, the governor declared.

Earlier in a statewide radio broadcast addressed to upstate rural groups working for the success of the Republican party in Tuesday's election, Dewey accused the Democratic-A.L.P.-Liberal coalition candidates of promising "the impossible in order to fasten on the people the intolerable."

He voiced belief, however, that "our people know how to judge those who promise the impossible never having even achieved the possible when they had the opportunity."

Salute Is Out

The Hitler salute, or any reasonable facsimile, is unpopular in Austria. The latest Viennese joke concerns a man who went to see a friend off. The train drew out slowly and the man waved his arm slowly. He began to grow tired. His hand seemed almost motionless as though in salute. Suddenly the stationmaster shouted: "Wriggle your hand more, or I'll have to arrest you."

New Factories Are Planned for Disabled Vets

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Newsfeature Writer

New York—A nationwide series of industrial plants directed and manned entirely by disabled veterans is being proposed to key executives as the first rehabilitation program based on the wishes of casualties themselves.

The plan was described by S. C. Rothman, former Army major, who said he had undertaken a study of rehabilitation needs at the request of Sen. Harley M. Kilgore of West Virginia whose attention had been called to the matter by the late President Roosevelt. Rothman, a native of Charleston, W. Va., and a personal friend of Sen. Kilgore, said he had obtained the views of more than 5000 servicemen during the period he was an industrial hygiene engineer in the Second Service Command.

More than 52,000 combat wounded and disabled veterans have tramped the streets of the nation since January looking for jobs, said Rothman, "and only 6,000 have been placed."

Up to Big Business

Big handicap in reemployment of casualties, he added, is that only big industry—which actually hires only 5 per cent of the nation's employed—has the facilities for setting up rehabilitation and training programs, which have reached "only a small sector of the disabled group."

"Hospital surveys of the handicapped and craftsman many patients revealed that the veteran was not only industrious but manifested a wholehearted ingenuity as well as originality in his creations."

Sauerkraut Is Good Source of Vitamin C

Geneva, N. Y.—The fermentation process in the making of sauerkraut has little, if any, effect on the vitamin C content of the finished product which is an excellent source of this nutritive element, declares Dr. C. S. Pederson, food bacteriologist at the Experiment Station here.

Some loss of vitamin C occurs during storage of kraut, according to Dr. Pederson's findings, but in an examination of 226 cans of kraut the majority showed a vitamin C content that topped the average for tomato juice. His experiments have also shown that kraut may be "fortified" with vitamin C by the addition of crystalline ascorbic acid in the preheating tank or by adding uniform-sized tablets of ascorbic acid to the containers before filling.

"Ascorbic acid has some effect in preventing color changes in sauerkraut," says Dr. Pederson. "Kraut packed in tin appears not to lose its ascorbic acid as rapidly as when packed in glass, but there is an apparent error in the determination, possibly due to the action of the tin."

Comments encountered in the processing of kraut have also been investigated by Dr. Pederson. Because kraut is relatively high in acid, only a few organisms, such as certain yeasts and acid-producing bacteria can survive, with the result that pasteurization can be carried out at relatively low temperatures. The station scientists have found that effective pasteurization of kraut may be accomplished by filling the containers at a temperature just high enough to remove excess carbon dioxide and to obtain sufficient vacuum in the can, which means 135 to 165 degrees Fahrenheit.

"In an incompletely fermented kraut, however, the acidity may be low and the bacterial count high, and this greater heat may be essential to effective processing," says Dr. Pederson. "Kraut is a poor conductor of heat and thus long heating is required to reach the center of the can. This means that the kraut next to the can is subjected to the high temperature for a long period and is overheated. Also, the acid next to the can may act more rapidly upon the tin due to the raised temperature. Thus the desirability of processing kraut at as low a temperature as possible and yet insure a stable product."

MT. MARION

Mt. Marion, Oct. 30—The annual turkey supper of the church, held Thursday evening, was very successful.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Relyea of Ridgefield Park visited Mr. and Mrs. Fred Osterhout Sunday.

A community Halloween party will be held at Tennesse's hall Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Hallock and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harter of Lynbrook were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Warren D. Myer.

Mrs. Catherine Lasher of Newburgh visited Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Myer last week.

Miss Margaret Myer of Oneonta spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Myer.

Mrs. Margaret Conyes is seriously ill at the Dale Sanatorium. Mrs. George Gillison spent the week-end at Boston.

Hudson Valley Lodge, Sons of Norway, sponsored a Halloween party and dance at Tennesse's hall Saturday evening, with approximately 200 in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Nelson and son, Donald, of Dumont, were week-end guests of Mrs. Marie Amundson.

Mrs. Archie Van Benschoten entertained the Willing Workers Sunday school class Tuesday evening.

Cleaning Coffee Pots

Whatever pot is chosen for making coffee, it should be easy to keep clean. Wash it in hot suds after each use and rinse it thoroughly to avoid a stale flavor in the beverage. Clean floors of vacuum in this should be washed well after each use.

Rothman said "Why not coordinate this latent talent pool of about a million men into a Veterans Industry Plan for the development of surplus war materials?"

The plan has been discussed in preliminary form with Sen. Kilgore, Gen. Omar Bradley of the Veterans Administration, Maj. Gen. C. B. Erickson of the Army Training and Reorganization Administration, veteran group representatives and labor-management officials. A "committee board" survey is now being conducted among key executives to develop final details.

Might Utilize War Surplus
Under the plan, a national corporation would be set up, headed by a board of trustees representing business, labor and government. An executive and administrative staff and all other personnel would be disabled veterans. The corporation would take over abandoned surplus war plants or available community buildings and the vast stock pile of surplus war materials.

Availability of the surplus war materials would be the key factor in setting up production schedules. Minor assembly jobs will be contracted for with neighboring industries.

The veteran will be paid from the profits of his own industry the wage rates existing in the surrounding area. Profits earned by the industry over and above its needs will be set aside for an emergency loan fund. Under no circumstances will prices be cut to underbid or to encourage cut-throat competition.

Rothman said that two bills providing for government establishment of such a coordinating program have been introduced in Congress but that action has been delayed until business has had plants or available community opportunity to evolve a voluntary plan.

Why Witches On Halloween

By ROBERT N. COOL
A.P. Newsfeatures Writer
Don't tell Junior. But...
Youngsters who celebrate Halloween by soaping windows and installing crows in belfries are closer to the most ancient spirit of the occasion than are their law-abiding elders.

That's because Halloween long predates the Christian All Saints' Day, with which it is now associated, and goes back to pagan times when it became a holiday for wicked spirits. Later on, when Christianity outlawed Druidical rites, the last night in October still was recognized as a special occasion for witches, ghosts and devils.

Where Devils Come From
"It is a well-known fact," declares the Encyclopedia Britannica, "that when a new religion is established in any country, the god or gods of the old religion become the devil of the new."
The devil often appeared to Christians, disguised as an animal. He might wear a stag's skin and have antlers on his head, in imitation of a heathen god. Such figures have been found in prehistoric drawings.

This Halloween, traditionally represented a reversion to paganism, a night when former gods (now devils) were supposed to ride high. Generations of Christians long maintained a fondness for the old-time heathenism, and on Halloween they backslid. Youngsters are still doing it—against the wishes of those who would supplant mischief-making with jack-o'-lantern-waving and ducking for apples. But Junior may be following a hoary precedent when he starts out with a pumpkin, and ends up in the police station.

However, the jack-o'-lantern and apple-bobbing school also can claim antiquity.

A Roman Heritage
A Roman harvest affair, in which nuts and apples played a part, was grafted onto the Druids' gathering of evil spirits; and even in the Middle Ages parents doubtless suggested that this phase of the occasion be emphasized by their young. In fact, apple-bobbing is depicted in medieval prints.

But witches and devils are far more deeply rooted in the autumnal night, with Halloween carousels antedating even the dawn of agriculture.

In those days it was a herdsman's holiday—which may explain the cow in the belfry; if not the cabbage hurled on your front porch.

Cooperative Exchange
Meeting November 6

Milton, N. Y., Oct. 31.—The 259 local patron-members of the Mid-Hudson Cooperative G.L.F. Produce Auction will conduct their annual meeting Wednesday, November 6 at 8 p. m., in the Milton Grange Hall, Edgar E. Clarke, Jr., Milton committee chairman, announced today.

Two members of the Patrons' Committee will be elected to succeed Jay D. Lester and Walter Hoving, both of Highland, whose terms are expiring. Benjamin Childs of Marlborough; Chairman Cate and Albert Schrieber, both of Milton, and Eber Coy of Arden, continue as committeemen. District Manager Harold E. Gass will review the past year's operations, and the program will include slides of G.L.F. services. Chairman Clarke pointed out that local patrons' annual meetings provide patron-members with the machinery for controlling their cooperative. Local committeemen elected at these meetings not only determine policies for G.L.F. operations in the local community but also decide on an important part of the G.L.F. policy, which is used by more than 150,000 farmers in New York, New Jersey and northern Pennsylvania.

Two Women From Orient to Plead National Causes

By SIGRID ARNE

New York, Oct. 31 (AP)—Two women from the Orient—where women, for the most part, still are supposed to be seen and not heard—are here to plead for their nations before the United Nations.

One is here for a nation on the eve of independence; the other for a country that does not now exist as a nation.

The first is Mrs. Vinaya Lakshmi Pandit of India—a slender, delicate woman with huge dark eyes and silvery hair. High born and wealthy, her family for two generations has fought for Indian independence. She carries her nation's battles before the U.N. Assembly while her brother, Jawaharlal Nehru, leads India's interim government at home.

The second is Louisa Yim, president of the Central Women's College in Seoul, Korea, who has flown the Pacific to ask the U.N. to get foreign troops out of her land and let the 22 million Koreans manage their own affairs. She speaks for a provisional government in half her country—the southern half occupied by U. S. troops. The northern half, where Russian forces are stationed, is not represented.

There is a marked difference between the two women and their position in U.N. deliberations.

Mrs. Pandit, a wealthy Brahmin and a fighter for Indian independence has been jailed twice for the cause. She has had to carry comforts to both her recently deceased husband, Dr. Ranjit Pandit, and to her brother while they served long jail sentences.

Extremely sure of herself, she'll hold a committee to its chairs two hours if need be as she marshals facts like a lawyer. Her flashing eyes, alone, can discourage any argument, whether from her own delegation or from U.N. committees.

Miss Yim, who studied at the University of Southern California, discarded eastern clothes long ago. She looks like any half-shy, sweetly feminine Oriental woman in tailored suits and occidental hats. She's here alone, with no advisor closer than the Korean commission in Washington, but her stuffed brief case carries an amazing array of facts about her homeland.

Miss Yim is here with no recognition. Her country is to gain independence "in due course," according to a Big Three agreement at Cairo back in 1943. Korea has been under the Japanese heel longer than any nation—since 1907. Miss Yim's big brown eyes fill with tears at the realization that the fate of 22 millions lie in her brief case and her wits.

She can gain entrance to the U.N. meetings only by applying for one of the 250 seats set aside each day for "the public." She can speak to no committee. But she has a petition which will be presented to each delegate and to the press which says that Korea is caught in the discussion between the United States and Russia, and pleading for a United Nations' investigation into the situation.

25th Anniversary of Region 2 Boy Scouts

Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Governor Walter E. Edge of New Jersey, will recognize the 25th anniversary of the organization of Region 2 of the Boy Scouts of America comprising both states at a dinner Friday, November 8, at the Hotel Astor in New York city.

The governors will present Silver Star awards to Boy Scout Councils and Units for achievements in membership growth, program, enrichment, efficient operation, trained leadership and thrift training.

More than 1,000 adult Scout leaders of both states will mark the silver anniversary by an all-day meeting November 8, at which they will discuss problems dealing with the welfare of the 130,000 boys of New York and New Jersey who are members of 6,000 Cub Scouts, Boy Scout Troops and Senior Units. Serving these boys as volunteer leaders are 35,260 men, many of them former Boy Scouts.

William H. Pouch, President of the Concrete Steel Corporation of New York, chairman of Region 2, will preside at the meeting. Mr. Pouch is a member of the National Executive Board of the Boy Scouts of America and is president of the Greater New York Council.

His Job Is Resettling
Six Million in PolandBy LARRY ALLEN
A. P. Newsfeatures

Warsaw—One of the busiest men in Poland, slight, blondish, 45-year-old Wladyslaw Wolski, vice-minister of public administration, is working night and day to put the finishing touches on one of history's biggest undertakings—the repatriation and resettlement of approximately 6,000,000 Poles.

After nearly two years of work, he thinks his job now is about 75 per cent completed and he hopes to write time to the entire task by the end of this year.

Into Wolski's hands, the government placed the exacting work of not only expelling about 5,000,000 Germans from Poland's old and new territories after the end of the war, but also of bringing back an estimated 4,000,000 to 6,000,000 Poles scattered abroad through the tides of conflict in the last six years.

WLADYSLAW WOLSKI

Progress to Date

Up to August, Wolski estimated that 4,000,000 Poles had returned to their homeland from eastern and western countries. One of the biggest chunks of humanity still awaiting repatriation is 500,000 Poles in the British and American zones of occupied Germany.

While all of this incoming movement has been going on, Wolski, too, has been busy directing the transfer of millions of Poles from Central Poland to the western territories—the lands absorbed from Eastern Germany—and arranging for their resettlement there.

He estimated that 2,000,000 Poles had already been moved from central Poland to the west and that there would be 5,000,000 there farming new lands and running industries by the end of 1946.

Recapturing Live Stock

Of the total repatriated up to August, Wolski said 1,764,713 had come from western European countries and 1,300,000 from the east. Eastern repatriations started late in 1944 in wake of the Russian advance toward Berlin. He said those who came from the east brought with them 72,079 horses, 159,761 head of cattle, 62,124 swine, and 82,045 sheep and goats.

Out of an estimated 5,000,000 Germans on Polish soil at the end of the war, all but approximately 1,000,000 now have gone voluntarily or been expelled to Germany, the vice-minister reported. Lack of transport has caused some delays. However, since February and up to August, more than 1,000,000 Germans were expelled. Most of those now in Poland are in the lower Silesian territory.

Wolski emphasized that the Germans were being cleared out district by district and county by county, as rapidly as possible. The city of Olsztyn—formerly Allenstein in East Prussia—is one of the spots recently cleared of Germans. In Warsaw, government authorities are putting to work 5,000 German prisoners of war—rebuilding what they systematically and deliberately destroyed, house-to-house.

Although not naming them, Wolski charged at a recent press conference that "British and American military authorities and U.N.R.R.A. officials" in occupied zones in Germany were instrumental in hindering the return of Poles. He also charged that agents of the former London government were active among the displaced Poles and propagandizing against a return to the homeland, although counter activity was denied to government representatives.

Charges British Mistreatment
Wolski is a member of the Communist-backed Polish Workers party. He also has dealt with a tough situation in handling the Ukrainian problem. He estimated that 482,000 Ukrainians, mostly from southeastern Poland, had been sent to Soviet Russia and also 30,000 White Russians.

Two Million Refunds
Reported by G.L.F.Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 31 (AP)—James A. McConnell, general manager of the Cooperative Grange League Federation Exchange, reported today that $2,578,312 will be paid farmer patrons in the northeast as cash refunds on a $95,865,992 business volume for the year ended July 31.

McConnell said the refund was 97 per cent of net earnings and that its payment was in line with an established G.L.F. policy under which more than $24,000,000 had been returned to members in patronage refunds during the past 10 years. McConnell made his announcement at the final session of a two-day 26th annual stockholders meeting.

One Million Gift Boxes Goal of Junior Red Cross

One million gift boxes, to be packed and shipped to needy children overseas, is the goal of American Junior Red Cross members this year in the annual Enrolment for Service Campaign, November 1-15. This group of young people who last year had more than 19,000,000 members throughout the nation's schools will continue its widespread programs of local, national, and international service in 1946-47. Educational relief and rehabilitation for children abroad still top its list of activities.

Last year the Junior Red Cross sent half a million gift boxes packed with hard-to-get items and found the number far too little. Reports from members of European Red Cross societies show that these boxes have brought much happiness to thousands and contributed materially to international good will. The boxes contain needed items such as paper and pencils, soap, toothbrush, comb and washcloth, plus a tie or necktie and a toy. The average cost of the contents of each box is approximately $2.00.

To Help School Work

Emphasis in other international relief projects of the Junior Red Cross, financed by the group's National Children's Fund, shifts this year from supplies to meet immediate needs to more lasting projects that will help young people abroad to help themselves. Chief among current projects of the National Children's Fund is the purchase and shipment of duplicating machinery for reproducing textbooks and educational materials. This machinery will be sent to the Junior Red Cross of Norway and other European countries whose printing facilities were nearly all destroyed during the war. They will also be loaned, whenever necessary, to the ministries of education of various countries for emergency use. When such needs have been met, the machinery will revert to the Junior Red Cross for use in publishing program materials. The machinery consists of composing machines, plate-making equipment and duplicating machines, as well as ink and other supplies for one year's operation. Foreign representatives of the manufacturers will train personnel abroad as instructors in maintenance and operation of the machinery.

Last year more than $2,000,000 worth of health and school supplies were sent abroad through the National Children's Fund and the gift box project.

Making New Garments

Additional relief supplies will come directly from school classrooms. Girls in sewing classes are already at work on materials supplied through Red Cross civilian relief sources, making children's garments.

The Junior Red Cross will give special attention in this country to the development of surveys to discover local community needs for 1946-47, and to help fill them. Production work for veterans' hospitals and local institutions will be stressed with programs of entertainment prepared for special days and holidays. Students trained in Red Cross first aid, home nursing, accident prevention, and nutrition will help as before in hospitals and child care centers.

Eisenhower Can't See Why Charges Arise

New York, Oct. 31 (AP)—General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower says it is "absurd" to charge that the presence of the American Army in foreign lands is a threat to any country.

"A few, possibly from sincere motives," he told the closing session of the 15th annual Herald Tribune Forum on current problems last night, "allege that this army is a disturbing element in the world scene, terming it a standing threat to other peoples. But the countries against which it is hinted our army may be aimed do not need intelligence sources to recognize the absurdity of such charges."

Russian Foreign Minister Molotov in his talk Tuesday before the U.N. General Assembly, said that the presence of allied army outside former enemy countries gave rise to uneasiness on the world scene.

Cornstalks, wheat straw and sugar cane stalks are made into paper, corrugated fiber-board and building boards.

Ives Continues His Attack on Controls

Senatorial Bidder Centers His Drive in New York; Victory Predicted

New York, Oct. 31 (AP)—Irving M. Ives, swinging through New York city in a final-week campaign tour, pounded away today at federal controls which he asserted were hampering the workings of the American free enterprise system.

The Republican senatorial nominee and retiring Assembly majority leader also predicted "an overwhelming mandate" next Tuesday from New York state voters to continue the Republican "team-work government" in Albany for the next four years.

Calling for a "stunning rebuke to the present Democratic party and its splinter alliance," Ives said in a statewide broadcast last night:

"Great issues are at stake in the nation. The greatest of these is the return of our free economy. Progress waits while these confused men keep our system of free competitive enterprise hampered by the fraying ropes of their would-be managed economy."

Always Another Try

"With the American people straining to push forward, the Washington wise men hold them in check while they try out yet another expedient. These men desperately hope that they will find some magic elixir, some panacea which will give vitality to their would-be managed economy."

"We must restore our system of free competitive enterprise. Then the American people will write their own ticket of progress."

Ives' talk was addressed principally to gatherings of members of the Rural Citizens Committee for Dewey and Ives.

Later, speaking with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Republican nominee for re-election, at a Bronx Republican rally in Theodore Roosevelt High School, Ives said that "on the eve of a great Republican victory in the state and in the nation the voters of New York can look forward to an era of vast achievement."

"This victory," he continued, "will set loose the creative forces which are throttled by the uncertainty of the present Democratic party."

Metal Secret Shared

A refugee German scientist has disclosed a carefully guarded secret process to Australians in Sydney, and a new $800,000 company has been formed to exploit tantalum, one of the world's most precious metals, selling now at $148,000 a ton. The firm has leased what are termed the world's richest, purest and most extensive known tantalite deposits at Woodlark, 70 miles south of Port Hedland, in Western Australia. Previously, only three countries — Germany, Japan and the United States — knew the process of refining tantalum from tantalite ore.

THE SPOT?

Got a cold spot in your house? From past experience in chilly fall and cold winter days you probably know just where those spots are. It may be the bathroom where you start your day with goose-pimples... or the kitchen where you bolt your breakfast coffee to warm your innards... or the living room where even a hot radio number leaves you cold!

An ELECTRIC ROOM HEATER will supply just the boost you need to bring that spot over to the comfortable side.

The cost of the electricity for this extra help is 31c an hour, in the average home. You spend a cent while you take a bath, or a cent while you eat your breakfast, or a thin dime for a whole evening's warmth. The beauty of it is, with a portable room heater, you can have heat in a minute—no fuss, no bother, no odors. Just plug her in and let her go.

Appliance dealers have electric room heaters in stock. Get one to help warm the corner where you are.

Valentine promptly warned that he intends to see that the job of suppressing illegal registration and voting is done.

Delaware Battle Stems from Ways Of Old 'New Deal'

Dover, Del., Oct. 31 (AP)—The current campaign in Delaware, preliminary to the November election, centers about "New Deal" policies.

U. S. Senator James M. Tunney of Georgetown and Rep. Philip A. Traynor of Wilmington, the Democratic nominees for reelection, are ardent followers of the late President Roosevelt.

They are standing by their guns and are being challenged by the Republicans, who are condemning what they term "New Deal" policy.

The Republican ticket is headed by John J. Williams of Millsboro, a newcomer in politics, candidate for U. S. Senator, and J. Caleb Boggs of Wilmington, deputy judge of the family court for

New Castle county, for representative.

Traynor won in 1944 by only one per cent of the vote.

Labor is backing Tunney and Traynor, who also have the support of the regular Democratic organization. Organized labor is strong in Wilmington, but its strength in the rest of the state is not known. There are 250 election districts in the state, 148 in Wilmington.

It's Close in Wyoming
Cheyenne, Wyo., Oct. 31 (AP)—Despite optimistic forecasts by party leaders, closely fought battles are expected for the regular term in the United States Senate and the state's lone seat in the House of Representatives.

Wyoming is traditionally a conservative state because of its preponderance of stockmen-rancher voters. The Wyoming voter is a better listener than a talker and his opinion as to how he plans to vote very seldom is divulged.

Joseph C. Mahoney, Democrat, is running for his third full term in the Senate. His opponent is a Cheyenne attorney, Harry B. Henderson, former state senator.

Rep. Frank A. Barrett, Republican, is opposed by former Representative John J. McIntyre, Democrat. Barrett unseated McIntyre in 1942 by only 1,000 votes but won his second term in 1944 by 10,000 votes, about 10 per cent, over another opponent.

Lives as 'Groom' Two Weeks, Turns Out to Be Woman

Coltskill, England, Oct. 30 (AP)—A 26-year-old woman was accused in a crowded magistrate's court today of having posed as a man, married another woman of 26 and having lived with the "bride" as husband and wife for more than two weeks before the deception was discovered.

Ellen May Young, a paint-sprayer, who appeared in court in men's clothing, was charged formally with having made and signed a false declaration for the purpose of marriage and of having willfully and knowingly made false statements for the marriage register.

The "romance" began more than a year ago and culminated, prosecutor C. C. Ladds said, in marriage after the second woman, Miss Irene Mary Palmer, had threatened suicide if the wedding did not take place. The name was given as Allan Michael Young.

Miss Palmer testified she had no reason to believe her "husband" was a woman. After the marriage, she said, her "husband" always used the bathroom as a dressing room, and told her that if she wanted a child she could have one, she told the court.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

(Editor's note: Hal Boyle, Associated Press war correspondent and globe circling columnist, is back. He resumes his column today after a vacation in Europe and the United States. Starting with several columns of impressions gained during an 18-month trip from San Francisco to New York via the Far East and Europe, he will cover the postwar American scene as he has the scene abroad. Life in New York and among the United Nations personnel there will first come under his observation.)

New York, Oct. 31 (AP)—A year ago if an American overseas got word he was due for home leave everyone told him enviously: "Lucky stiff!"

Now anyone coming back is consoled with: "Poor guy! Isn't there any way you can get out of it?"

For thousands of Americans, frightened by tales of housing shortages, food scarcities and high prices, have developed an allergy to the thought of returning to their native land. They are afraid to exchange their niche in Europe or the Far East, whatever its discomforts, for the uncertainties and inconveniences of life in Manhattan or Dubuque.

They are the nucleus of a new class of self-exiles, fearful innocents abroad.

Well, there is something in their fear, exaggerated as it is. Coming home to America after a long absence is a mixture of terror and gladness.

So Different
In so many ways it is like the land it was, and yet in other ways, so different—this strange new United States that has emerged from the alarms of war for an uneasy excursion into peace.

It is like meeting up with a long-absent friend whose face has become so hardened by time and change you have to look deep for the old familiar features you knew and loved in other days.

For this America I have come to isn't the same land I left in October 1942 with General Patton's men to test our battle idealism in Africa.

General Patton is gone, his banners are scattered, and the idealism that sent them selflessly forth is as tattered and worn as a blue serge suit on an Arkansas scarecrow. Or so it seems at first glance.

The America of 1942 is as lost as Crinolene petticoats and the five cent cigar. The returning traveler feels like a reverse Rip Van Winkle remembered to find himself back in the roaring roaring, 1920's. Only this time they appear to be achieving prohibition of more than liquor by multiplying prices and watering the product.

This new American merry-go-round first dismays a homing wanderer, but I expect you get to like it as soon as you can grab a seat.

Longing for Friends
The thing you long for first when you return is the sight of someone you know.

Stepping off the Queen Elizabeth I felt alone and ill at ease as I stood on the pier trying to hand a customs officer a two-bit cigar so he wouldn't notice a new pair of Swiss shoes I was wearing and had forgotten to declare.

Everything seemed strange and busy. Then I looked across the water and saw a new fine ship riding at anchor. On the bow in gold letters was "Ernie Pye" and through the lettering I could see in my mind the crinkly blue eyes and faded elf smile of my dead wartime friend, as if he gave me soundless greeting. And I took it, as the Romans would, as an omen of welcome.

I felt more at home, loaded with baggage. I asked a traffic cop at the pier entrance to steer a cab my way and he answered:

Cops 'Greeting'
"Grab that one—you expect me to push one right under your nose?"

I crawled in, although the interior looked more like a bombed long. Gee, it's wonderful to be out chicken coop than the inside of a taxi. The cab rattled me happily to the little Greenwich Village Mar's Nest where I have paid rent for six years.

I loped up the stair case and what do you think there was waiting for me? Yes, sir, nothing but a brand new dispossession notice from a brand new landlord telling me to go forth and seek another fox-hole.

Yes, America, you great big booming bunch of bedlam, I believe I've found home with nothing on your mind but problems.

Storm Reporting 75 Years Old Oswego, New York—When Congress authorized meteorological stations for "signalling the approach and force of storms," they were built by the U. S. Signal Corps, and the first storm signal in America was flown here in October 1871. In the peacetime Regular Army's current recruiting campaign thousands of newly enlisted volunteers are selecting the Signal Corps for training in meteorological work and in telegraph, telephone, and radio communications.

A MESSAGE OF INTEREST to all who await deliveries of new Chevrolets

We want you to know that everything possible is being done to speed deliveries to you; but production still lags far behind schedule—even though Chevrolet has built more cars and trucks than any other manufacturer from January through September 1946

WE REALIZE how eagerly you are awaiting delivery of the new Chevrolet you have ordered from us, and we want to pass on to you the latest information received from the Chevrolet Motor Division, even though that information isn't too encouraging at this time.

It is true that Chevrolet leads all other manufacturers in total production of passenger cars and trucks from January through September 1946, despite the fact that Chevrolet was out of production entirely during the first three months of this year. It is also true that Chevrolet has continued to maintain its lead in total production during the third quarter of 1946. And yet production is still running far below desired levels, with the result that Chevrolet's output of cars and trucks through September 1946 was only 38.7% of the number produced during the corresponding period of 1941.

This means it may take many months for the Chevrolet Motor Division to reach peak production of new Chevrolets—even longer to fill the unprecedented demand for this product of BIG-CAR QUALITY AT LOWEST COST—and, for the present at least, "there just aren't enough Chevrolets to go around," much as we wish there were.

However, we want you to know that new Chevrolets are leaving the plants in the largest numbers possible today. The Chevrolet Motor Division tells us it is doing everything it can, in the face of continued suppliers' strikes, material shortages and manpower problems, to step up shipments to us and to all dealers, in accordance with a predetermined distribution plan assuring each dealer of his fair allotment, based on 1941 passenger car sales. And we, in turn, are doing our best to deliver new Chevrolets to our customers as rapidly as they are received and in the fairest possible way. We are too appreciative of your loyalty and goodwill—too grateful for your patience and understanding—to do anything less than continue to serve you to the very best of our ability.

KEEP YOUR PRESENT CAR RUNNING
Meanwhile, the most important car of all to you is the car you are driving now. May we suggest that you keep it in top running condition until you secure delivery of your new Chevrolet, by bringing it to us for skilled service now and at regular intervals. Remember—cold weather is hardest on old cars. Please see us for a complete check-up today. . . . And, again, thank you!

New York, Oct. 31 (AP)—A Newsweek magazine poll of 50 Washington correspondents, the results of which were disclosed today, brought a prediction from the day's political writers that the Republican party would gain control of the House in the November 5 congressional elections. The writers forecast a tie with the Democratic party in the Senate, predicting each party would have 48 seats in the upper legislative chamber after next week's elections.

Ertel Retroactive Pay Amounts to $2,500

Retroactive pay amounting to nearly $2,500 will be paid to 40 employees of the Ertel Engineering Corporation by the company today.

The extra pay will swell the company's weekly payroll as the result of an agreement between management and the Federal Labor Union, Local 23287, which became effective on August 1.

The pay increase represents an average wage boost of from 10 to 15 cents an hour for all Ertel employees and establishes wages at the local plant on a comparable level with others in the same industry.

Details of the contract have not been completed but the wage increase has been in effect since August 1, according to George Yerry, business agent of the Kingston Metal Trades Council with which the Federal Labor Union is affiliated.

Son Watches While Dad Kills Mother Official Reports

White Plains, N. Y., Oct. 31 (AP)—The 7½-year marriage of the scion of a wealthy colonial family and a pretty janitor's daughter was ended today with the wife dead of a gunshot wound in the heart and her husband charged with homicide.

Assistant District Attorney Frederick E. Weeks, Jr., said Mrs. Marie Shannon Purdy, 37, was shot last night in her bedroom before her six-year-old son in the climax of an argument with her husband, Charles, 42, over drinking. At his arraignment in city court today Purdy was ordered held for hearing November 7.

Police quoted the child, Charles, Jr., who they said had wandered into his mother's bedroom, as describing the tragedy this way: "Poppy shot Mommy. They were arguing and they got pretty excited and poppy said, 'I'll fix you,' and he went and got a gun and Poppy shot Mommy."

Police Chief William Miller said the boy led police to a closet where they found a .32 caliber revolver with one shell fired.

A four-year-old daughter, asleep in another room at the time.

Police said the first word they received of the shooting was a call from Purdy herself saying he "wanted a cop," and when asked why, replied, "the cops will find out when they get here."

Weeks quoted Purdy as saying both he and his wife had been drinking during the day, his wife heavily, but that he was not intoxicated at the time of the shooting.

Purdy is a descendant of a family which has lived in Westchester county since pre-Revolutionary times. He is a prominent member of the White Plains Elks Club, where his wife's father, the late Patrick Shannon, worked as a janitor.

Mrs. Purdy had lost her right hand in a motor accident in which both were involved shortly before their marriage.

Representatives of the union and officials of the United Stock Yards and Transit Co., were to meet today with Federal Conciliation Commissioner Walter J. Munro to discuss the dispute. The company's offer of 4½ cents an hour pay hike was rejected by the union.

A general meeting of union members will be held tonight to decide on what action to take.

Byrnes of the State Department would have gone so far in risking war with Russia if they had not been needed into it by Vandenberg and the military."

Senator Claude Pepper (D-Fla.), another critic of administration policy toward the Soviet Union, said at Kansas City a Republican victory next Tuesday "would sabotage our efforts to build a peaceful world."

"Imagine," he asked an audience at a National Citizens Political Action Committee meeting, "a foreign policy being conducted by our President and secretary of state that must depend on the fiscal and political cooperation of a Republican House led by Joe Martin and his crew of wreckers."

At Philadelphia Senator Taft declared the Republicans already are sure of winning a "safe majority" in the House and furthermore will swing enough Senate seats to wind up with a majority of 52 against 45 for the Democrats.

These claims were pooh-poohed by Rep. Drew W. (Va.), chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee. He issued a statement in Washington saying the Democrats would hold the House with a majority of 25 to 30.

Western Union Strike Averted

Agreement Extends Its Contract to April

New York, Oct. 31 (AP)—A threatened strike of 7,000 Western Union employees here, set for 12:01 a. m. today, was averted four hours before the deadline, with the signing of an agreement extending the present contract to April 1, 1947 and granting workers wage increases.

The settlement was reached between officials of the company and the C.I.O. American Communications Association through the efforts of a special committee appointed last week by Mayor William O'Dwyer and headed by former Supreme Court Justice Isidore Wasservogel.

Ratified by a voice vote of about 1,500 union members, the pact calls for a 16.5 cent-an-hour wage increase to all non-messenger employees and a 10-cent an that it planned to retain controls on textiles and basic clothing items. It said the same thing about shoes and leather, however, and last night Steelman ordered these products decontrolled, over O.P.A. objections.

As for the 120-day limitation on advance pricing, O.P.A. said it had been given no indication that this is to be removed. One official said he does not see what good it would do.

Senator George D. (Ga.) contended in Vienna, Ga., that the principal reason for plummeting cotton prices is inability of textile mills to compute prices on finished goods for more than 120 days ahead, due to O.P.A. restrictions.

He added that as a consequence mills are limiting their purchases of cotton.

In the wake of these developments, Chairman Elmer Thomas (D., Okla.) of the Senate Agriculture Committee announced in Oklahoma City that he had asked Mr. Truman to eliminate immediately all O.P.A. controls over cotton mills and the textile trade "in order to restore confidence in the cotton industry and to stabilize cotton prices."

On the other hand, an O.P.A. official contended that the limitation actually "protects" mill operators "because it permits them to know where they stand for at least four months ahead."

Bomb Explosion Wrecks Embassy

criticism of British policies has been lacking in Italy since the war ended. Ward and Michael Stewart, British press attaché, said they also were mystified by the bombing.

Stewart said the wing where the explosion occurred had been held as part of the embassy residence, but had been used only for formal banquets and receptions.

Rome's morning newspapers demanded vigorous police action to find those responsible.

Foreign Ministry Pietro Nenni, who rushed to the scene at once with high police officials, said a red flag, marked "danger—mines," was draped over the suitcases and that similar flags were draped on each side of the doorway. He said he hoped "the guilty-whomever they may be—will soon be brought to justice."

Ward told police that an embassy driver had noticed the suitcases and had picked them up, set them down again and then walked around the building to report them. A few seconds after he left them, the blasts occurred.

About 300,000 houses were completely destroyed and 800,000 damaged in France during the last war.

U.S. Warns Builder Proof Is Necessary To Show 'Offering'

Washington, Oct. 31 (AP) — The government warned home builders today that it takes "more than a sign" on a new house to prove that it has been offered for sale or rent to a veteran. Regulations require builders to take "affirmative steps" in making new dwellings available first to veterans, said the National Housing Agency and the Civilian Production Administration.

To comply with the intent of the regulation, the agencies said, builders must either advertise the houses in newspapers, list them with real estate brokers, or consult local mayors' veterans housing committees "for the purpose of finding eligible veterans."

"The mere posting of a placard is not sufficient for this purpose," the agencies said in a statement. "The owner's intention as manifested by his conduct is an important element in determining whether the public offer requirement has been met."

Government regulations provide that houses authorized for construction and sale after August 6 must be publicly offered for sale to veterans during construction and 60 days thereafter.

30 Per Cent Hike In Traffic Mishaps For Nine Months

Chicago, Oct. 31 (AP) — Twenty-four thousand persons have been killed in traffic accidents in the first nine months of 1946, an increase of 30 per cent compared to the corresponding period in 1945, the National Safety Council says. Compared to the first nine months of 1941 the total was 13 per cent lower.

Traffic deaths in September totaled 2,940, four per cent above September, 1945.

Five Persons Die When Crack Train Strikes Two Cars

Commodore Vanderbilt Was Traveling at 80 Miles Per Hour at Lancaster

Lancaster, N. Y., Oct. 31 (AP) — Five young persons were killed 10 minutes before midnight last night when the advance Commodore Vanderbilt of the New York Central Railroad struck two cars at the Sheldon avenue crossing here.

Dead are Celeste E. Weber, 15, James F. Weber, 18, and Leo J. Weber, 21, the daughter and sons of Mr. and Mrs. William Weber; Jack H. Stiegler, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Stiegler, and George H. Lanthier, Jr., 20, son of George Lanthier, Sr., all of Lancaster.

Police said the two cars, parked abreast, awaited clearance of an eastbound passenger train and proceeded together across the four track right-of-way.

The westbound New York-Chicago Commodore struck the two cars as they passed over the second track. A railroad spokesman said the train was traveling at its 80-miles per hour time table speed.

Police stated the victims were acquainted and authorities did not know when the occupants were riding in each of the cars. There is an automatic flashing red signal at the crossing.

Big Four Deputies Study Program for N. Y. Council

Aboard the Aquitania, Oct. 30 (Delayed) UP—After two days of inactivity, deputies for the Big Four Foreign Ministers Council met informally today to review the work which lies before them when they reach New York Saturday.

Diplomatic representatives of other nations hastening to New York for the United Nations Assembly meeting also were busy with a series of preliminary confabs.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin meanwhile kept to his cabin, taking the first complete rest he has had since the illness which forced his temporary absence from the Paris Peace Conference.

Since the Aquitania sailed from Southampton Sunday he has dined only with James U. Dunn, U. S. ambassador to Rome, and plans to entertain Maurice Comte de Marcell, a leading member of the French delegation, before the end of the voyage.

A New Yorker in Washington

By JAMES C. MURN
A.P. Special Washington Service
Washington, Oct. 31 (AP)—What will be the future political or otherwise of New York's defeated gubernatorial candidate?

It is a question to which persons other than New Yorkers are giving consideration, speculation—and there is absolutely nothing more concrete to go on—is rife in the nation's capital.

No one, except the two candidates themselves—Republican Thomas E. Dewey, the incumbent, and Democrat James M. Mead—can pretend to know the answers.

Several weeks ago a rumor, which has not been confirmed in any quarter, was published that Mead, if defeated, would succeed Robert E. Hannegan as postmaster-general.

That rumor, all hands are agreed is within the realm of possibility. There are at least two good reasons why it could become fact.

J. Hannegan, who is also Democratic national chairman, could if relieved of his postmaster-general's duties, devote his full time to preparing the Democratic Party for the admittedly tough task it faces in the 1948 presidential election.

2. Mead always has been interested in the post office department. As senator he has sponsored much legislation beneficial to postal employees. Also, he has attracted closely to administration duties during his senatorial years. This is important because, if defeated, what better reward could his party give him for faithful service than cabinet rank?

However, if Mead succeeds Hannegan, a Republican president might enter the White House in 1948 and Mead would lose the job.

May Want Buffalo Job
Washington gossip speculates Mead might be more interested in becoming postmaster of Buffalo, N. Y., his hometown.

The present postmaster, David A. Driscoll, 71, has passed the automatic retirement age of 70 although, under an exception to the law, he may serve three more years if he so chooses. The job pays $8,400 a year—which compares favorably, all things considered, with the stipend Mead has received as senator.

Mead, who will be 61 on December 27, could hold the post until the automatic retirement age.

Dewey, a relatively young man of 44, isn't likely to seek or accept political appointment if he fails to win re-election.

The governor, 1944 Republican candidate, is certain to be a leading possibility for the same nomination two years hence if re-elected governor.

Look for Big Victory
It is a poorly kept secret that Dewey's close associates and campaign managers in New York expect him to defeat Mead by a thumping majority of at least a half million votes and that, added prestige thus obtained will be a powerful aid to his life-long aspirations at the 1948 Republican National Convention.

It is agreed by well-informed political observers that Dewey is pointing for re-election and the presidential nomination and is seriously concerned with other plans.

In the unlikely event of a November 5th defeat, Dewey easily could re-enter a lucrative New York city law practice he abandoned to become governor. He is a first class trial lawyer and won his first political prominence as a crusading Manhattan district attorney who concentrated on "rackets" and their operators.

Explains Difficulties In Growing Oats

Ithaca, N. Y.—"We don't know who is going to win the next round, but we hope the farmer will," J. S. Niederhauser, Cornell extension plant pathologist said today as he told of the difficulties farmers have encountered in growing oats during the past few years.

The 1943 oat crop was nearly a failure in many parts of New York state, according to the pathologist, due to the ravages of a rust disease. Rust also caused considerable loss to oat growers in 1941 and 1945, consequently, by 1946, thousands of farmers had turned to a new variety of oats called Vieland, which is rust resistant.

The 1946 oat crop was generally good, but test plots grown in various parts of the state by H. H. Love and associates of Cornell's Agricultural Experiment Station show that the Vieland yield was 29 per cent below other varieties. This reduction was primarily due to another disease, with the long name, Helminthosporium, which attacked Vieland to a much greater extent than some of the varieties formerly grown.

The Cornell men report that new varieties are now being developed that will be resistant to both rust and Helminthosporium, but these cannot be on the market for another year or two.

"In the meantime," Niederhauser stated, "every oat grower, and especially those growing Vieland, should treat his seed oats with New Improved Cresan. Although this seed treatment doesn't give complete control of Helminthosporium, it will kill the fungus on the seed and get most plants safely through the seedling stage, which is very important. The American soldiers have a new name, "Matrimonial Lane," for the once fashionable Kurfurstendamm, the Piccadilly of Berlin, in the British occupied sector, since British soldiers have been permitted to marry German girls. U. S. authorities say they will not lift the ban because there are too many unscrupulous women who would use any means to marry soldiers. But the British say that as long as there was a marriage ban some soldiers would talk glibly of marriage without any idea of fulfilling their promises. Now, frauleins know where they stand.

Frauleins Get Break

formaldehyde treatment generally used is not effective against Helminthosporium. Complete directions for treating seed can be obtained from the county agricultural agent in each county.

According to Dr. Niederhauser, the recommended seed treatment will protect all varieties against other disease and against smut. "We are urging growers of certified seed and other seed handlers to treat the seed before selling it to farmers. This may not always be possible, since oat seed treated with New Improved Cresan can be used only as seed and must not be fed to livestock," he explained.

Faith of Mother Keeps Her From Calling in Doctor

Son Happier in Heaven She Says About Boy Who Was Victim of Infantile

Kansas City, Oct. 31 (AP)—Tired and wane, Mrs. Fred Bowers who said "I had for my doctor the highest of the high" today meditated the death of her son whom she declined to place under medical care, but asked:

"Who can say that Philip is not happier in heaven?"

The 11-year-old boy was stricken two weeks ago with infantile paralysis. Mrs. Bowers maintained that only Divine healing power could cure him. City health authorities told her the boy might die if he did not receive medical treatment and placed a quarantine on the house.

Yesterday Mrs. Bowers telephoned her husband who had been living in a hotel because of the quarantine.

"I hurried home when she called me," Bowers said. "She didn't say why she wanted me to come. I looked at my boy and I knew he was gone. I went to the telephone to call the coroner."

Bowers said his wife made only one comment when he walked to the telephone.

"Jesus took him," she murmured.

Bowers said that "all along" he wanted a doctor.

Members of the In The Name of Jesus Church, to which Mrs. Bowers belonged, had prayed continuously for Philip's recovery.

"I am right and my husband is wrong," Mrs. Bowers said yesterday. "My boy had no pain. He wanted to go to heaven and he cried out to the Lord to take him home to Jesus."

"Earthly doctors said Philip would live only three days but he lived more than a week. That proves the Lord is more powerful."

Feed Industry Men To Attend Meeting

Ithaca, N. Y.—More than 200 representatives of the feed industry plan to attend the Cornell Nutrition Conference for feed manufacturers in Syracuse, November 7 and 8, and in Ithaca on the 9th, according to E. I. Robertson, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

The printed program of the three-day meeting discloses that in addition to several out-of-state speakers and a number of staff members from Cornell's poultry and animal husbandry departments and from the nutrition school, Dean W. I. Myers of the agricultural college is to address the group on "A Look at Post-war Europe."

Dean Myers recently completed a six-weeks trip to Europe as a representative of the Rockefeller Foundation, of which he is a director. While in Europe he studied conditions in England, France, Germany and Austria.

Members of the conference will have an opportunity to visit the United States fish hatchery near Cortland to observe the research work being done on the nutrition of trout.

Robertson warned feed men planning to attend the conference that they might have some difficulty in finding rooms. "We are asking those who already have rooms to let us know if they have space for another occupant. Those who are unable to get hotel accommodations in Syracuse may want to stop at tourist homes on the outskirts of the city."

Dry mustard is known as a good antiseptic and sterilizing agent and is an excellent deodorizer.

Auburn Freshman Rates No. 1 As Busiest Man With Football

Texas Bob Layne Tops
All With Yardage
Gained on Ground and in Air

New York, Oct. 31 (AP)—Bobby Layne of Texas, Ben Raimondi of Indiana and Gene Roberts of Chattanooga sport the outstanding offensive records on the nation's gridiron but the busiest man with a football these days is Auburn's triple-threat freshman.

Layne tops all the collegians in yardage gained, both on the ground and in the air. Raimondi is the leading passer and Roberts is the leading punter while Layne has covered more yardage while running with the ball than any of the rest.

Tidwell, however, is the work-horse of them all. In Auburn's five games he has carried or thrown the ball 171 times, scampering a total of 386 yards on 84 running plays and completed 44 of 87 passes for an aggregate of 483 yards.

His grand total of 869 yards makes him the runner-up to Layne in individual offense. Only three players stand ahead of him in the passing department, based on the number of completions, and on the number of completions, and on the number of completions, and on the number of completions.

Retains His Leadership
Layne retained his leadership in Auburn's offense by boosting his yardage to 942 yards on 112 plays.

Third is Herman Wedemeyer, All-American back from St.

Mary's, with 736 yards, followed by All-American Glenn Davis of Army and Alabama's great Harry Gilmer with 718 yards each.

Raimondi held his lead among the passers with 46 completions in 92 attempts for a total of 563 yards.

Gilmer, in the runner-up spot, has tossed exactly 100 passes in six games, completing 45 of them for 535 yards.

Roberts, who carried the ball 22 times for 116 yards in Chattanooga's 33-13 loss to Miami of Florida, is the fifth man to top the list in the individual rushing department, with 520 yards.

He has carried the ball 88 times and gained 564 yards.

Rudy (Little Doc) Mobley of Hardin-Simmons is the runner-up with 520 yards, followed by Joe Rogers of Villanova, last week's leader, with 510. Lloyd Merriman of Stanford with 499 and Glenn Davis of Army with 468.

Leaders by Departments
The ten leaders in each department:

Total offense—(gains rushing and passing)—Layne, Texas, 942 yards in 112 plays; Tidwell, Auburn, 869 in 171; Wedemeyer, St. Mary's, 736 in 117; Davis, Army, 718 in 102; Gilmer, Alabama, 718 in 143; Chappuis, Michigan, 647 in 97; Faunce, Minnesota, 633 in 102; Case, U.C.L.A., 625 in 78; Macrae, Nevada, 618 in 82; LeFlore, Tulsa, 586 in 102.

Passing offense—(ranked on total completions)—Raimondi, Indiana, 46 completions in 92 attempts for 563 yards; Gilmer, Alabama, 45 in 100 for 535; Layne, Texas, 44 in 76 for 726; Tidwell, Auburn, 44 in 87 for 483; De Moss, Purdue, 35 in 74 for 373; Clark, Texas Mines, 34 in 57 for 370; Fenimore, Oklahoma A. and M., 33 in 64 for 409; LeFlore, Tulsa, 33 in 65 for 478; McCrane, Kings Point, 33 in 101 for 404; Faunce, Minnesota, 31 in 50 for 344.

Rushing offense—Roberts, Chattanooga, 564 yards in 88 carries; Mobley, Hardin-Simmons, 520 in 84; Rogers, Villanova, 510 in 66; Merriman, Stanford, 499 in 94; Davis, Army, 468 in 74; Golding, Oklahoma, 448 in 58; Stevens, Cincinnati, 442 in 56; Parkinson, Utah, 400 in 43; Barry, Tulsa, 397 in 59; Jackson, Yale, 388 in 58.

Boxers Stranded
In a lull in an Albany box, "Ben Becker and seven boxers are stranded in Athens. Their car broke down," was his announcement.

"Ouch," cried the Doc as he bounded for his seven passenger and took Bill Zwick along to do a towing job—all dressed up in his "volunteer fireman" outfit.

When he returned he was informed that his officials were missing: Mort Finch, timekeeper; Tommy Zano, Bob Steele and Jack Finerty.

Joe Honig took over the bell ringer's chores. Johnny Carpio, once a popular favorite as the Hudson valley's uncrowned lightweight champ, and Charles Petrone, who trained Dominic Petrone, once a leading bantamweight contender, acted as judges on request of Harry Kaplan. They did a commendable job.

Joe Vozdik, Saugerties referee, went the full route instead of handling only the preliminaries, when Emmet Ryan didn't put in his appearance. Ryan had been assigned to a show in Schenectady.

Recalled Old Days
With Vozdik, Carpio and Nettis on the job, the boxing picture recalled days of yesteryear when they all had a hand in the ring sport here. To make it more authentic, Jack "Red" Mosher, now a Newburgh patrolman, showed up as the handler of two boxers. He was a National Guard middleweight once, and boxed in the local arena when it was a state armory.

Even the regular physician, Dr. Maurice D. Silk, was absent last night. Dr. Anthony Maureri of the Benedictine Hospital examined the boxers.

Doc Goldfarb was glad when Joe Honig tapped the ring chime for the last time. It not only signaled that the fights were over, but his headache too. He didn't say anything about appointments for today, but just in case patients couldn't find him they'll know why he couldn't make the office.

Four End Active Ball
Boston, Oct. 31 (AP)—The end of the baseball trail came today for four popular members of the American League Champion Red Sox. All will be retained, however.

In The Pocket

CHARLIE TIANO

The average bowling lineup is assembled without rhyme or reason, except that as a general rule the best bowler is in the anchor slot and the leadoff man bowls there because he "can't bowl anywhere else." This is an exaggerated theory that finds little support in the nation's major tenpin wheels.

Big-time squads follow a very definite pattern in arranging the hotshots. The leadoff bowler is the team's "holley guy" and more than often the second best bowler. If you can find the happy combination of a good kegler and holley guy, leadoff is the spot for him. (Paging, Quickie!)

The No. 2 man generally is the fourth ranking kegler who happens to be a "holley guy" in shall we say a lower key. The middle or "sandwich" slot is reserved for the weakest bowler. It is a local practice to put the weak sister in the No. 2 slot.

The No. 4 bowler should be the best spare shooter on the team. In close matches, what the sub-anchor does exerts a tremendous influence on the anchor. Since the anchor man is the "long ball hater" his form will vary. He's in the fifth spot because he piles up the big games. The anchor is essentially a strike bowler but it doesn't hold that he is the best spare shooter. That's why the No. 4 slot is critically important. Check your own lineup and see if it shapes up with the big timers.

SORRY, KIDS!—The Myron J. Michael "Frank Sinatra Club" was on the telephone early Wednesday morning and an irate young lady informed us bluntly that it was "all a pack of lies." That statement in Tuesday's "Pocket" that poor Frankie is loved only by his sponsors. . . . They want the word to know that they, too, adore The Voice. . . . Okay, girls, to each his own!

Newburgh's Paladines, storming through the Hudson Valley League like a four-alarm fire, knocked off their bitter town rivals, the Hangar Grill, 2-1 Sunday. . . . Led by Tony Mack's 653, the Paladines set new league records with 1076 and 3071. . . . Hangars salvaged a game with 1003. . . . Nick Leone 617 for the winners. . . . Veteran Wally Gerken poured in 660 and Tommy Jones 626 in a losing cause. . . . Paladines have racked up 11 out of 12 on the home drives. . . . Newburgh Taxes taking Kingston keggers for a-7 out of 9 ride on local drives.

FLOTSAM AND JETSAM

Johnny Ferraro should revive that idea of a local single or doubles classic. . . . Why doesn't somebody take the initiative and form a women's Hudson Valley League? . . . Another of those fratricidal duels on tap Saturday night—Jones Dairy No. 1 vs. Kingston Trailways. . . . Ye bowling gods, give me those visiting firemen and spare me the wrath of hometown bloopers! . . . Charlie De Stefano, Poughkeepsie's brilliant golf pro, taking a whirl at bowling. . . . At the moment it is difficult to distinguish the scores but Charlie is too fine an athlete to stay in the bowling cellar. . . . Talk about bowling consistency—take a look at George Fleming's recent series in the Hudson Valley loop: 591-570-573-582-578.

LATE SEASON DIVOTS: Who said this is football weather? . . . Paul Weiss, of the Dutchess Golf and Country Club has been elected to his fourth term as president of the Hudson River Golf Association. . . . Twaalfskill Club has been awarded the 1947 Seniors tournament on June 14. . . . The H.R.G.A., formed in 1902, is one of the oldest golfing organizations in the country. . . . Frank Stone, Jr., is the latest golfer to try bowling. . . . Meanwhile Frank Stone, Sr., retains a lively interest in sports and is always good for a barbering session. . . . William E. Rose, the insurance exec, Roy Vogt's biggest booster and an ardent follower of golf. . . . A local sports figure is honoring a v-gt. with a handsome trophy for his city championship victory over Dr. Fred Holcomb. . . . More on that later.

NATIONAL HOTSHOTS: Falcon Recreation, Detroit, 3569; Detroit Gaskets, 1207; Steve Meyer, Milwaukee, 782. Ladies' top scorers: Pepsi-Cola, Dayton, Ohio, 2906; Colonial Broach, Detroit, 1062; Lucy Court, Indianapolis, 289; Charlotte Kardas, Grand Rapids, 694. . . . It happens even to champs! . . . Two days after Mrs. Charlotte Kardas shot 694 to lead the nation, she became a very disillusioned lady when she rolled a mere 448 in her league games.

TODAY'S BULLETIN: Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 30 (BBS)—Willie Rappaport, famed anchor of the Heil Quality Products, resigned today and left town. Billy Sixty, bowling expert of the Indianapolis Times, said Rappaport was flying to Kingston, N. Y., to bolster the sagging forces of Jones Dairy No. 2 in the Hudson Valley League race. Rappaport was carrying a 220 average.

Whatever happened to the City Bowling League scores?

ever, in the Sox organization. Right handed pitcher Charlie (Broadway) Wagner who never regained his form after his health broke while serving in the Philippines, will move into the front office to assist George (Specs) Toporcer, director of the Boston farm system. Veteran relief pitchers Mike Ryba and Mace Brown and utility infielder, Coach Tommy Carey, will be assigned posts in the system to help develop younger players.

Topping Presents Claim
New York, Oct. 31 (AP)—Dan Topping contends that as co-owner of the Yankee baseball club he is entitled to use the name "New York Yankees" or "Yanks" for his All-American Football Conference team. Topping presented his argument yesterday in answering a suit by Sports Promoter Douglas G. Hertz to restrain the football Yankees from using that name.

Hertz said he had a prior claim to the name because in 1940 he bought controlling interest in the Yankee Football Exhibition Corp. and operated a pro eleven known as the New York Yankees. Justice Carroll G. Walter reserved decision.

Passing Is Anticipated
Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 31 (AP)—Cornell's football players anticipate a passing attack on the part of Columbia at New York Saturday. Coach Ed McKeever stressed aerial defense in yesterday's workout. The team was strengthened by the return to uniform of half-back Carl Holland, out for more than two weeks with an injured rib.

Carolyn Is Appointed
Utica, N. Y., Oct. 31 (AP)—Patrick J. Carolyn of the Bronx was appointed today head coach of track, cross country and boxing at Mohawk College, emergency state G.I. institution. His assistant in all three sports will be Herbert P. Pocket of Providence, R. I. The appointments were announced by Mohawk Dean Robert G. Davis.

Newburgh Plays Port Jervis Friday Night in DUSO Tilt

N.F.A. Favored to Hand
Tri-Staters Another
Loss; Middies, K.H.S.
Prep for Big Game

While the drum-beaters are still pounding away in readiness for Saturday's big DUSO League game between Kingston and Middletown at Wilson Field, plenty of interest is being focused for Friday night's arduous contest between Newburgh Free Academy and Port Jervis High at Glennette Field.

With the first round of the league dispensed with, three teams—Kingston, Newburgh and Middletown—are off from scratch and from now on out it will be every team for itself. A defeat for any one of these three clubs might mean the end of its chances for a DUSO League championship.

So it is with interest that Newburgh plows into Port Friday night in a game starting at 8 o'clock. The Goldbacks just managed to trim Port in the last outing by 7 to 0 but since then the Tri-Staters have been bashed 12 to 0 by Kingston and 38 to 0 by the powerful Middletown eleven.

Despite the odds which naturally favor Stan Hemingway's Newburgh eleven, Port Jervis must be considered with as it is always the underdog who flares up and knocks off a favorite. It happened here in Kingston last Friday night when the Maroons dumped Newburgh. It could happen again.

Port, holders of last place in the league standings, has everything to gain and nothing to lose in Friday's arduous brawl. An upset over Newburgh wouldn't enhance its chances for a league crown but it would make up considerably for all of the team's losses thus far.

Meanwhile Coaches Ed Rodiek of Middletown and Willard Burke of Kingston, are leaving no stones untouched for Saturday's vital contest at Wilson Field. Word from the Orange county camp indicates that the Middies are anticipating an improved Kingston team and that feeling is expected to be carried out to the fullest extent.

Middletown will go into the Kingston encounter at the same strength as in the game with Port last week. Hugh Summers, guard, is expected back in action after injuring his thumb. The rest of the squad is set with Hank Kindberg and Gordy Hallenbeck, ends; Pete Seali and Dusty Warren, tackles; Nick Piza and Summers, guards; and Tom Esposito, center. In the backfield Chi Chi De Stefano, Joe Berthoff, Herc Thornton and Charlie "Red" Murray are set to pin Kingston's ears back again and to take a good step towards a DUSO championship season.

Captured Horses Entered
New York, Oct. 31 (AP)—Among the 12 horses comprising the U. S. Army team entry in the National Horse Show here November 4-9, four mounts captured from the German Wehrmacht. The team headed by Col. Earl F. Thompson brought it from Ft. Riley, Kas., Rascal and Nipper for the military jumping competition and Roll On and Two Star for the open classes.

Rochester Is All Set

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 31 (AP)—The University of Rochester's football team was at full strength today for its game Saturday at Albany with Rensselaer Poly. Carl Wren, regular end, who was injured in the N.Y.U. game two weeks ago, returned to the lineup yesterday. Coach Elmer Burham stressed defensive play in yesterday's practice sessions.

Contracts Are Renewed
Philadelphia, Oct. 31 (AP)—Pitcher Phil Marchiondo and catcher Buddy Rosar have renewed their contracts with the Philadelphia Athletics for next season, Connie Mack, manager of the A's said.

Strike Idleness Exceeds That of '45 About Three Times

Government Figures Show 98,225,000 Man-Days Lost Because of Disputes

By NORMAN WALKER
Washington, Oct. 31 (AP)—Strike idleness during the first nine months of 1946 exceeded by nearly three times the working time similarly lost in all of 1945, the previous record year.
Government figures which showed this today placed at 98,225,000 the number of man-days lost due to management-labor disputes during the January-through-September period.
For all of last year the total was 38,025,000. Earlier peaks were 28,425,000 in 1937; 26,219,000 in 1927 and 23,048,000 in 1941.
The Bureau of Labor Statistics, which compiled the figures, said the number of strikes and lockouts for the first nine months of this year totaled 3,375, compared with 3,784 for all of 1945.
The reason for the big jump in man days lost, officials said, is that postwar strikes have been bitter and, for keeps, hence extended for longer periods. During the war walkouts generally were small, spontaneous and quickly settled.
B.L.S. didn't begin keeping its present type of strike statistics until 1927, so no comparison is possible between the postwar year 1946 and the postwar year 1919 on the basis of man days of work lost.
However, in 1919, B.L.S. says there were 4,160,000 workers involved in strikes. The figure this year may surpass that mark because for the first nine months of 1946 the total involved was 3,805,000.

This is a difference on only 353,000 struck workers but there were 535,000 on strike for the single month of September, principally due to the maritime and New York trucking strikes, now largely settled.
The B.L.S. statistics show how strikes became more severe immediately after the war ended. Three-fourths of all the 38,025,000 man-days idle in 1945 came in the months following V-J Day.
Thereafter the long and widespread steel, auto, coal and electric workers' strikes began to pile up this year's big idleness total. February was the record month with 21,500,000 man-days lost.
For September, the last month recorded, the figure was 5,000,000. By way of comparison there were only 3,317,000 man-days lost because of strikes in the entire year of 1930.

$10,000 Awarded Erna Fischer

Action Brought in Death of Ernest Hoppe
A verdict in the sum of $10,000 was returned Wednesday afternoon in favor of Erna Hoppe Fischer, daughter and administratrix of the estate of Ernest Hoppe, who died as a result of injuries suffered on March 21, 1943, at the Williams Lake crossing of the Walkill Valley Railroad when his car driven by Fritz Kuebler, was struck by a train.
The verdict in the action which was brought to recover $50,000 against the New York Central Railroad Company and Walter and Fannie Williams, as defendants. The jury found no cause of action against the Ulster County Construction Company, a third defendant, which is controlled by the Williams family. Peter H. Harp appeared for the construction company. Lloyd R. LeFever and John E. Egan appeared for the plaintiff and Judge Harry M. Elmening for the railroad. A. J. Cook, appeared as trial counsel for Cohen & McGuirk, attorneys of record for Walter and Fannie Williams.
Court recessed until 11:30 o'clock Friday when No. 127, William J. Shann against Howard Pangburn and another, will be moved. This is a negligence action. On Monday No. 114, Rosalie Granite against Alfonso Appuzzi, et al., action for declaratory judgment, will be moved.
Justice Bergan will hold a regular special term Friday at 10 o'clock.

Mohican Bakers Unionize, Hold Meeting With Firm
Employees of the Mohican Company bakery department voted unanimously yesterday to accept the Bakery Workers International as their bargaining agent for a union contract with the chain store.
The six employees affected by the decision met in the offices of the Kingston Metal Trades Council yesterday with Charles Drake, general superintendent of the Mohican Company bakers, and Herman Gunn, international representative of the Bakery Workers International.
The special election was by agreement between the Mohican management and the Bakery Workers International. Management agreed to recognize the union as a bargaining agent if the employees accepted it. George E. Yerry, business agent of the Metal Trades Council, said this procedure eliminated the formality of an election supervised by a state or national board.
Signing of the Mohican employees followed similar action by the Salzman Bakery two weeks ago and set the stage for a general organizational campaign among all city bakeries. Mr. Yerry declared that the Bakery International has a majority in several other shops and would move for early elections.

No Justification, Yerry Declares

Says He Has List of Those on Committee; Names State Backers

"The recent statements and letters by local labor leaders that have appeared in The Freeman stating that individual members of local unions have no right to form a Republican labor committee are without justification," George E. Yerry Jr., chairman of the newly-formed Republican Labor Committee declared today.
Yerry's statement was designed to repudiate letters addressed to The Freeman by Harold Bunting, president of the Kingston Teachers Federation and Thomas W. Mitchell, of the Electrical Workers Union.
The two letters followed closely the announcement by Yerry last Saturday that a newly organized Republican Labor Committee in Ulster county included 19 officers of 11 local unions. Among the unions named were the Kingston

Local Firm Has 60 Per Cent of Vets on Jobs

Nearly 60 per cent of the workers employed by the firm of Slover, Jansen and Schline on two building projects in Kingston and New Paltz are World War II veterans, a checkup revealed today.
The Kingston contracting firm now has 59 men working on the State Housing project at Loughran Park and 35 of the workers are veterans. In New Paltz where the company is building an addition to the Normal School, there are 22 employees including 11 veterans.
The Slover, Jansen and Schline company indicated from the outset that it would make a serious ef-

Teachers Federation, Teamsters Union, and the Electrical Workers Union. Officials of the three unions declared that no officer of their union or any individual in their organization had affiliated with the Republican Labor Committee.

Says He Has Proof
Yerry's rebuttal was that while he has not published the names of the committee members he has the proof. He has withheld publication, he said, because he felt such members might be subjected to disciplinary action or discharge from the unions.

"Those leaders who oppose our right to do so are themselves indulging in the same practice," Yerry continued.
"To substantiate our position we list herewith the names of responsible labor leaders throughout New York state who are endorsing the position taken by the local Republican Labor Committee. It is interesting to note that several of the organizations have local tie-ups; notably the Teamsters Union, Electrical Workers Union, Building Trade Councils, Municipal Empire Association and the Syracuse Federation of Labor.

New York State Committee
The membership of the New York State Labor Committee, a Republican organization pledged to campaign for the election of fort to recruit as many war veterans as possible. The occupational skills of the veterans vary but the unskilled workers are gaining valuable apprenticeship while producing a good day's work.

A spokesman for the contracting firm said the contractors were highly pleased by the work being accomplished by the veterans.
Work is moving along swiftly at the Loughran Park project where the local firm is under contract to build 12-unit buildings. There will be twelve separate buildings accommodating 50 families. Each house will be one story, frame construction, 20 by 100.
Building materials are pouring in from Camp Shanks, N. Y., where the material to be used here made up the quarters for members of the Medical Detachment at Shanks.
Lima beans are dried on the vine by the sun and air.

Dewey and Ives, as listed by Association.
E. Koveleski, president of the New York State Culinary Alliance. Kingston has a similar organization in the Hotel and Bartenders Union.
Leo Nally, president of the New York State Sheet Metal Workers.
Frank Nigro, president of the New York State Journeymen Barbers.
Thomas G. Young, secretary of Local 328, Building Service Empire International Union.
William Lawyer, president of the Watertown Building and Construction Trades Council.
Yerry pointed out that the list of responsible labor leaders refuted the idea that these men could not act on their own initiative. The same situation is true in Schenectady, he added.

First Aid Course Held at City Lab By C. W. McBride

First Aid refresher course for current instructors has been held nightly at the City Laboratory to refresh and review new standards and techniques under Chester W. McBride, First Aid, Water Safety and Accident Prevention representative from the North Atlantic area office in New York.

A major Red Cross responsibility under the Congressional Charter, the local chapter reports, is to better the health and safety of the people of our country or a community. The first aid instructor's job is to save lives and to teach others the same knowledge in cases of emergencies before arrival of a doctor. It is hoped that the schools and local organizations will see the need of this service, the chapter says, and will take advantage of the up-to-date, qualified instructors who will be glad to offer their services in training how to save lives in the techniques of First Aid. Do you realize that this service is given without charge?

Too many of our people have believed that first aid training was a wartime activity, but this is a misbelief, since it is a peacetime activity due to the many accidents that are occurring daily. A knowledge of how to save a life is vitally important in this modern age.

The local first aid chairman, Deputy Fire Chief Harold A. Sanford, will only be too glad to arrange for classes at the request of the schools and local organizations, such as police department, industries, ski clubs, and the general public. Requests should be made to the First Aid Chairman through the local Red Cross chapter at 237 Fair street, Kingston.

The grand master gave an address of interest to Masons. At the close of the service in the church refreshments were served in the Sunday school rooms. Practically every Masonic lodge in this area was represented at the meeting.
